Positive Policy In North China

Peking, April 15.
Progress in the establishment of defences in Suiyuan, Chahar, Shanai and Hopei and in closer military co-operation between North and South China is believed to have resulted from a series of conferences, just ended, between General Hsiung Pin and local leaders.

He conferred here with General Sung Che-yuan several times and earlier visited Suiyuan, where he saw General Fu Tso-yi, and Tai-yuan, where he conferred with General Yen Hsi-shan.

The activities of General Hsiung are seen here as indications of China's definite intention to pursue a positive policy in North China, in line with previous instances that political issues be completely liquidated as a prerequisite for adjustment of Sino-Japanese relations.

DRASTIC CURTAILMENT OF OFFICE DEPLORED

EULOGIA REFLECT PUBLIC SENTIMENT

GRACIOUS COMPLIMENT TO LADY CALDECOTT

All sections of the community of Hong Kong gave expression to their high esteem and regard for His Excellency the Governor, Sir Andrew Caldecott, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., and Lady Caldecott, at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday afternoon when beautifully executed farewell addresses were read and presented by the Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Kt., K.C., LL.D., Senior Unofficial member of the Legislative Council, on behalf of the Colony, and by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, C.M.G., on behalf of the Chinese community.

There was a full attendance, including many distinguished European, foreign and Chinese residents, and His Excellency was accorded a tremendous ovation. His Excellency was accompanied by Capt. W. J. R. Cragg, A.D.C., and was escorted to the dais by Sir Henry.

The farewell address was printed on vellum in a blackwood case with clasps and arms of the Colony in silver, contained in a crimson silk portfolio. The address on vellum was printed by Messrs. Kelly and Walsh and the blackwood and silver was by Wang Hing.

The Chinese farewell address was contained on a blackwood screen and executed by calligraphy. The valediction to His Excellency and the English translation were printed separately and bound.

The Chinese address is signed not only by individuals of the Chinese community but also by many organisations both charitable and industrial, labour guilds and banks.

Guests arriving by car are respectfully informed that no cars will be permitted to drive up to Queen's Pier after 10.45 a.m.

The route of His Excellency will be lined by troops from Government House—Helena May Institute—Garden Road—Queen's Road—Jackson Road—to Junction with Connaught Road. No traffic will be permitted on or across this route after 10.45 a.m.

Cars may be parked in Connaught Road (between Jackson and Murray Roads) and in Chater Road east of Jackson Road.

No parking will be permitted in Jackson Road or Wardley Street north of the Statue.

CORONATION FILMS

Over 40,000 Feet To Be "Shot"

Exceptional efforts are being made by the chief newsreel companies in the United Kingdom to produce films of the Coronation which will be worthy of the occasion. Each company is devoting the whole of the available newsreel of the day to the Coronation picture alone, and with the exception of that part showing the ceremony in the Abbey, the films will be individually produced.

COTTON TRADE AGREEMENT

Japan's Piece-Goods To India

London, April 15.

The India Office has announced the terms of the protocol signed regarding the cotton trade agreement between India and Japan expiring in 1940 which follows the main terms of the trade agreement which recently expired.

Japan is allowed to export to India 283 million yards of cotton piece-goods against the sale of a million bales of raw Indian cotton to Japan.

Customs duty on imported piece-goods will be 35 per cent. ad valorem.

Importation of Japanese piece-goods may be increased with a corresponding increase in the sale of Indian raw cotton.

RUBBER MARKET FAILS TO ATTRACT

Speculators Still Suffering From Gold Scare Shock

London, April 15.

The failure of speculators to recover their nerve after the recent Roosevelt gold scare was the chief reason advanced by leading rubber circles for to-day's weakness in the commodity which opened at 104½ for "Spot" compared with last night's close of 114½.

It is pointed out that despite some disappointment in the market at the high estimate of April shipments, the commodity's intrinsic position is unchanged, but with buying support at present at its lowest ebb even the smallest liquidation exercises an unduly depressing influence on the price.

On the other hand some quarters confess to be baffled by the persistent weakness and are inclined to the belief that the United States may have a finger in the pie. It is stressed that American manufacturers continue to hold aloof, but doubts are expressed whether they can hold out much longer and it is believed that when they start buying they will have no alternative but "buy big."

All's well with the Breast-fed Baby

The most valuable service a mother can render her baby is to ensure that he will be fed from the breast. Upon this may well depend his future health and happiness.

Maternal milk is the one perfect food for baby. It is naturally constituted to suit his delicate digestion and to provide every nutritive element required to ensure healthy growth and development.

Doctors and Nurses know the remarkable value of 'Ovaltine' to expectant and nursing mothers. Taken regularly before and after baby comes, 'Ovaltine' not only promotes a rich and ample supply of breast-milk but it maintains the mother's strength and vitality.

FUTURE OF PEAK HOTEL DISCUSSED

Annual Meeting Of H.K. And Shanghai Hotels

SHAREHOLDERS EXPRESS VIEWS

The future of the Peak Hotel, which was closed last year, was discussed at the ordinary yearly meeting of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Hotels, Limited held at Exchange Building yesterday morning. Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie (Chairman of the Board of Directors) presided.

The Chairman, in the course of his speech, remarked that the future of the property was still under consideration.

Dr. F. H. Kew, who was one of the shareholders present at the meeting, said that in the event of the Directors taking steps to build a new Peak Hotel, a meeting of the shareholders should be called before they launched such a scheme.

The Chairman assured shareholders that they could rely on the discretion of the Directors to do what was best for the Company. But, of course, the Directors did not propose to abrogate their powers under the Articles of Association.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

The Chairman said:—My task in submitting, for your consideration the Accounts for the financial year 1936 is, I feel, undertaken in happier circumstances than those which existed for my colleagues who presided at annual general meetings of the Company held during the past few years, inasmuch as the results shown by such accounts appear to denote that the persistent decline in revenue, compelled by the adverse trading conditions then encountered to be successively reported, has at last been checked.

During the period under survey your Hong Kong Establishments (with the exception of the Peak Hotel) have enjoyed patronage in all departments of a volume substantially increased over that experienced during the previous year. Acceleration of increase has been marked in respect of the revenue derived from the Restaurant and Cafe business conducted at the Hong Kong Hotel. Transient patronage also improved considerably—even during the Summer months—and thereby the ratio of occupancy applying to our Hotels in the Colony attained consistently a higher figure than that shown for some years. "No accommodation vacant" returns having been received from resident managements with gratifying frequency.

PEAK HOTEL

Towards the middle of the year your Board decided that the Peak Hotel, for many years a popular Residential Establishment, had passed its period of utility. The cost of upkeep due to the age of the structure had been mounting month by month until operation ceased to be an economic proposition. Accordingly, it was decided to close the Hotel on the 31st August last. The entire contents have since been removed and disposed of and the future of the property is still under consideration.

Our Shanghai establishments maintained a satisfactory turnover during the year, but competitive conditions again necessitated operating at cut rates, and in consequence the contribution from the Hotels in the Northern Port to the General Working Account was again a meagre one.

PEIPING SUCCESS

The Hotel operated by our subsidiary Company in Peiping enjoyed excellent business during its last accounting period ended on the 30th June, 1936, and I am pleased to state that current returns show still further improvement.

The improved conditions upon which I have commented permit me to direct your attention to an enlargement in amount of the item "Balance of Working Account," which is included in the Profit and Loss Account before you at a figure of $588,287.43. This result is better by $158,000 than the Working Account produced in respect of the previous year. The enhancement may be contemplated with a certain amount of satisfaction, but I would remind you that the result depicted does not yet conform to the standard which should be achieved in periods of normal trading. The other items to the credit of Profit and Loss Account do not, I consider, call for particular comment.

With regard to the contra side of the account, the provision for Bad and Doubtful debts at $16,340, compares favourably with the debit made under the like heading—$44,382—in the accounts for the previous year. In relation to this item, I can assure you that the amount included in the 1936 account adequately provides for contingencies of the nature the appropriation is expected to cover.

Bank interest at $5,858.49 represents the lowest figure this charge has reached for many years.

Maintenance and repairs debit for the year has increased by $28,000—over the debit for the previous year, but when it is realised that this disbursement applies to seven large Hotels and a Garage Department, objection to such expenditure should not be raised for, as you are aware, proper and continual maintenance is essential to successful operation of the particular business your Company is running.

MARRIED LIFE UNHAPPY

Wife's Complaint In Court

Albert Anderson Warild, a Norwegian, was summoned before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistracy yesterday on a charge of persistent cruelty to his wife, Ida Warild, at No. 183, Sai Yeung Choi Street in January.

Mr. F. G. Nigel appeared for the plaintiff.

In evidence Mrs. Warild said that she was married to her husband in July, 1926, and had been travelling with him in Shanghai and North China until three years ago when they settled down in Hong Kong. She complained that she had been unhappy during the latter period of her married life, for her husband had been treating her rudely, and had objected to her association with several of her friends.

In cross-examination she admitted that she had rejected the offer of a separation by her husband because he wanted to claim the children.

Fok Chun, an amah, said that she had seen the couple quarrel on several occasions.

After further evidence was given the case was adjourned till April 20.

KWANGTUNG'S NEW GOVERNOR

Arrival In Canton

Canton, Apr. 15. General Wu Teh-chen, the newly appointed Governor of Kwangtung Province, together with his Secretary-General Au Yung-ku and staff arrived from Hong Kong by train yesterday (Wednesday) and received a rousing welcome by the leading civil and military officials and representatives of the different social and commercial bodies of the City.

Immediately on arrival, General Wu called on General Yu Han-mow, Pacification Commissioner of Kwangtung Province and Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Route Army. He also visited the graves of the 72 heroes at the "Yellow Flower Hill," as well as those of the late Mr. Hu Han-min and Governor Wang Mo-sung.

In the afternoon, he attended the welcome receptions of the different civic bodies, and at 7 p.m., he attended the grand banquet given in his honour by General Yu Han-mow, Mayor Tseng Yang-po, and other leading civil, military and Party officials.

General Wu Teh-chen has decided to assume the duties of his office to-day, when he will assemble and address all the officials of the Government.

It is reported that after assuming office, General Wu Teh-chen will exert himself in completely suppressing gambling and opium-smoking, and abolishing unpopular taxation and corrupt practices.

General Wu also decided to carry out the Three Year Plan of reconstruction for the welfare and happiness of the people of Kwangtung Province.

It is reported that General Ching Chih, Chief Military Adviser, has been appointed by the Nanking Central Government to administer the Oath of Office to General Wu Teh-chen, and that he is expected to depart for Canton on the 20th instant.

CHINESE FILM CENSORSHIP

Canton, Apr. 15. A short time ago it was rumoured that the Central Government had decided to suppress the exhibition of cinema films made in the Cantonese dialect. But owing to the representatives of Dr. Sun Fo, President of the National Legislative Yuan, and Mayor Tseng Yang-po, the Central Government has allowed the matter to drop.

Instead the Central Government has now decided to supervise the work of producing cinema films, and to strictly censor same before they are allowed to be exhibited in public.

It is reported that the Central Government will establish a branch of the Nanking Film Censorate in Canton with a committee of three to censor all films produced in the Cantonese dialect.

How To Wear The New Jewellery

Round The Shops

Diamonds will continue to be the fashion leader in stones, writes a Home correspondent. Only platinum is used for to-day's setting, so there is nothing to detract from the white fire of the stone itself. Each diamond is treated individually.

Individuality is accorded to all gems of worth, as every precious stone, of valuable and cast in a perfect design, is a costly affair. There is a desire to use important pieces such as head ornaments in many ways.

Diamonds sparkle in the hair at night, but they also appear at many daytime functions. A slender halo bandeau can be transformed into two other ornaments; the upstanding centre cut stones, with surround of square baguette diamonds, make a magnificent double-clip brooch; while the narrower ends are transformed into lovely bracelets.

Many of the newest bracelets are slender and graceful, measuring half to one inch wide, though the more massive types are of 2 1/2 inch width. Brooches in diamonds and all stones of value continue to be on the large, important size, but of such light and exquisite design as never to look heavy.

Another clever combination I have seen is one of the fashionable clip ear-rings in diamonds, made up in a band caught into a tiny buckle. By day this formed the new short clip curling round the lobe of the ear; by night the buckle and chain were released and a chain of diamonds fell, to create the long, graceful drop design.

Clever treatment of this kind is practical and modern. The girl of to-day prefers one or two pieces of jewel-work of quality to a miscellaneous hoard of old trinkets. Flexible pieces that can be altered easily to suit all kinds of toilettes and occasions fulfil modern requirements.

London jewellers are busy resetting and utilising stones of value, turning long-discarded and hidden treasures into beautiful and useful creations.

Bracelets and ear-rings are appearing in many of the important wedding-gift lists of to-day. Diamond bracelets can hold evening watches successfully. Dainty linked chains of diamond are occasionally interspersed with other stones, but the most popular way is to use all diamonds, for these stones in their great and newer variety admit of no monotony.

A linked bracelet may have one or two cut stones in each link with a surround of small baguette diamonds, other stones may stand up from a close pave foundation of small brilliants. It is marvellous how many ways of treating diamonds there are.

The same applies to rings. Whatever stone is chosen, it is preferred alone.

The big single diamond is lovely, with its platinum shoulder setting and possibly brilliants or smaller baguette stones to hold it. Big sapphires and emeralds are arranged in a similar way, but assisted sometimes by a background of baguette diamonds on each side of the shoulder that secures the stone. The single stone appears much more valuable in a simple setting of this type, rather than in the old half-hoop style.

I learnt at the Crown Jewellers that emeralds might be termed the favourite and most valuable coloured stone of this season, though sapphires also rank among wedding-gifts. The modern girl often chooses sapphires for her engagement ring.

I saw some exceptional examples of single-stone rings in emeralds. A very special specimen in this colour seemed to reflect wonderful tones. A rich velvety surface would perhaps best convey its finished perfection.

I am also told that pearls are coming into their own again quickly. Either black or white pearls of great price will suffice for the stud ear-ring and single pearl ring.

It is interesting to see pearls being worked once more into ornaments, such as a diamond brooch and clasp. This old-world alliance is now beautifully presented in the modern way. Nothing could be more exquisite than a slender chain of diamonds holding a lovely pearl pear-drop to weight it.

The rope of pearls is not so fashionable to-day as the two or three rows of pearls worn as a necklace, with diamond clasp. The Queen's affection for pearls will assist in their return to fashion's favour. They are most effective for ear-rings, and can be treated in a great variety of ways.

AN AMERICAN IDEA PERFUMED "BUTTERFLIES"

Perfume butterflies or beetles, made of metal and bright coloured stones, add a gay touch to the lapels of feminine suits this spring. The "bodies" of these ornamental "boutonnieres" are stuffed with cotton, which may be saturated with one's favourite scent time after time. It's one of the most charming beauty ideas seen here in ages!

One of the latest beauty wrinkles here is to add a drop of Eau de Cologne to the final rinse water, to give lingerie a pleasant, lingering fragrance. Another new trick is to sprinkle a few drops of the same or of rose geranium perfume into the finger bowls, as a final, charming touch for a formal dinner.

Red earth, a warm orange-red shade of nail polish, that exactly matches the new bags and shoes of that colour, is the latest fad. This polish is delightful with the Balmoral plaids so popular at present, and also is enchanting with navy blue, black, and York grey.

Ingenious young misses here have found that empty perfume bottles are an excellent substitute for sachets in the dresser drawer to scent lingerie and gloves. It's a thrifty idea worth knowing!

In accordance with the Paris decree that it's smart to be pretty this season, women here are wearing soft, feminine styles and curls that frame their faces flatteringly. Delicate make-up that reminds one of the pink and white complexion for which British women are famous has replaced darker, more exotic make-ups.

Fashion Flashes

Expert eyes see hints of future fashion developments — to be shown in the approaching collections of spring and summer models—in the clothes chosen by discriminating women now.

Hats are lower. Little flowered toques—violets are favourites—are tipped forward over the nose; turbans are made of various shades of gros-grain ribbon; off-the-forehead bonnets are embroidered with pall-letters or applique with gold leaves. All these have short veils of fancy mesh.

For the evening, the Directoire line—narrow hem, high waist, little puff sleeves, accent on the bust—has had an increasing vogue these last few weeks.

Most exaggeratedly "hobble" of these skirts are slit to what the dressmakers call garter-level. Some show vividly contrasting petticoats of pleated tulle beneath.

Sometimes, too, the skirt is slit all round, giving a flower-petal effect.

Corsages high to the throat in front and cut low at the back are much in evidence just now.

And you see transparent materials everywhere—tulle tunics, long lace coats over satin slips and, for the afternoon, two-piece suits, cut like classic tailor-mades, of wool lace.

Another high spot is bead embroidery; dressmakers are in scintillating mood these days.

Dresses are entirely covered with glittering embroidery, or maybe bands studded with sequins and cabochons will be applied to the revers or run right down the sleeve.

Two-colour ensembles for cocktail and dinner are immensely chic at the moment. With a black skirt goes a dashing circus-rider bolero of vividly-coloured wool material, covered with gold or multi-coloured bead embroideries.

But far more elegant than any evening tailleur is the revived fashion for the "half-evening" dress.

A particularly smart one is long, very narrow, buttoned from neck to hem, with little cuffs and a trim collar, its simplicity relieved by an enormous bunch of roses or peonies.

PARIS FASHIONS

New Millinery Designs

The first straw hat of the season was worn in Paris lately. It was a little toque of black straw with a dull surface. Worn far back on the head, leaving the brow bare, it was trimmed with knitted bands of the same straw across the front.

Milliners are busy with materials which they drape about the head in two clearly different lines; one brings the drapery to the front to be thrust out over the left side of the brow, the other line is that which shows the drapery drawn tightly back from the brow. Peterasham is used among them. Agnes has a new beret made of navy blue peterasham which is mounted on a plaid ribbon band. It is worn high in front and low down on the head behind. A four-cornered black silk peterasham toque is trimmed with black sequins and is worn slant and backwards on the head. Two flat ribbons hang close to the head behind. For the evening, Agnes is still making Juliette caps in velvet trimmed with flowers. A cap in

MAKE-UP . . .

For Coronation Green

In the fabric departments of the shops, materials in the Coronation colours are well to the fore. In these seven special shades issued by the British Colour Council we find literally something for everyone.

You'll be seeing (and buying!) these new colours, so it's time to think about a fresh make-up to wear with them.

You'll be seeing (and buying!) these new colours, so it's time to think about a fresh make-up to wear with them.

Because it's Nature's own colour, let's consider the new green. There's a simply dashing "Coronation Green" which would suit pretty well anyone. It has the softness of jade, but the brilliance of emerald.

Dark and medium dark girls want a peachy powder with a good "straight" red rouge and lipstick.

the kind of scarlet which has neither blue nor yellow in its vividness. They can afford to look dashing when they wear this green.

Blondes and the fairly fairs should play the reverse role. Let them go all pink and white so that the brilliance of the frock accentuates their ethereal look. A natural pinky powder, worn with a little blush rouge and a clear red lipstick, will turn them into Blonde Venuses.

Redheads can wear that orangey scheme which is always becoming to them. If their lashes and brows are too light, they should darken them with a little brown mascara.

Powder which is warm in tone, but not yellowish, will give their skins a peach-like effect and the green itself can be relied on to turn their hair into a glorious fiery halo.

red velvet has a red camellia over each ear. There are also some sequin-covered toques, which run high to a point. This peak can be worn at any angle, drooping or straight.

Navy blue linen with a damask pattern interwoven is the new material for yachting suits. Molyneux and Schiaparelli are both using it. Blue leather and suede belts go with the dress and there is usually a very brilliant coloured scarf at the neck. Tussore is also used, printed in bright patterns on a dark ground. A bright green suede belt with green tassels at the neckline on a dark blue dress is charming. White pullovers and knitted jackets are preferred to coloured woollens. They may be trimmed with bright embroidery of Tirolean inspiration.

The natural shades of white are more becoming than snowy white. Some of the new white linens have a herring-bone weave which makes the material look like a tweed.

Green in pale shades is one of the fashionable colours. Willow green is becoming both waifs and pink flowers are worn with it.

It is unofficially suggested that M. Van Zeeland alluded to Germany's part in a tariff truce, the possibility of eventual devaluation of the mark, and the prospects of the Bank of International Settlements supporting the Reichsbank.

Dr. Schacht also met a number of industrialists and another report says he is proposing a big barter transaction of Belgian colonial produce for German manufactures.

Battleships Cost 2/- Per Pound

To build a battleship costs nearly 2s for every 1lb weight, compared with 3d per lb. for the average merchant vessel. Those figures were given by Sir Westcott Abell at the annual meeting of the Institute of Naval Architects in London recently.

Mr. S. V. Goodall, Director of Naval Construction, in a paper on uncontrolled weapons pointed out that the treaties limiting naval armaments had left certain weapons free to be shipped while restricting the sizes of various classes of ships and the calibre of guns.

The torpedo, mine, and aircraft remained uncontrolled. Torpedoes had been improved and torpedo-carriers had increased in attack capacity and numbers of types. The same statements applied generally to mines.

Admiral the Earl of Cork and Orrery, discussing Mr. Goodall's remarks on uncontrolled weapons and their ability to inflict damage to the under-water structure of a ship, said that although ships were better protected against under-water attack they could never be proof against it and remain vulnerable. Although the modern ship might be to some extent unsinkable, her propellers and rudders were still exposed and easily rendered useless.

INVITATION TO THE WALTZ

A young man in love will make every kind of ingenious attempt to further his acquaintance with the beloved, but there are not many instances where the duenna has been an elephant.

In "Invitation to the Waltz," which opens at the Queen's Theatre to-day, Carl Esmond plays the role of a young alderman who meets and is captivated by Jenny Peachey, a little dancer in the ballet at Drury Lane.

Jenny has been well brought up, however, and upon their second meeting is inclined to ignore him.

They meet in the Zoological Gardens where Jenny is wandering round looking at the animals and eating her lunch, which consists of sandwiches. Jenny, in spite of her fairy-like proportions, has a healthy appetite, and is trying to make the most of her somewhat meagre meal. She pauses to admire the elephant and to throw a infinitesimal portion of sandwich in his mouth, and her admirer, watching her, is seized with a brilliant idea.

THE LONGEST NIGHT

"The Longest Night," adapted from the Cordland Fitzsimmons mystery thriller, "Whispering Window," teams for the second time Robert Young and Florence Rice, who appeared together to such advantage in "Sworn Enemy." Young appears as Charley Phelps, heir to the Phelps Department Store, where practically all of the action of the story takes place.

Florence Rice is a salesgirl in the store, who first meets Robert Young balancing a cane on the end of his nose. Her sister, a salesgirl in the jewelry department, is played by Julie Haydon, best remembered for her work opposite Noel Coward in "The Scoundrel." Miss Haydon's sweetheart is Leslie Fenton, member of a gang of warehouse robbers headed by the department store's buyer (Paul Stanton). The film discloses a racket by which these thieves dispose of their goods to the department store under the guise of wholesale jobbers.

DOCTOR'S DIARY

The conflict which confronts a young doctor—duty to the woman he loves versus his devotion to the highest tenets of the code of the code of medical ethics, forms the plot of "A Doctor's Diary," an intimate portrayal of the inside workings of a large metropolitan hospital, which has its run at the Alhambra Theatre to-day.

John Trent, former sea flyer, who makes his appearance in a leading role in this film, is a young doctor with refreshing notions on how hospitals should be run. He is kept from expounding them by his society sweetheart, whose father is head of the hospital, and by his fear of losing his job. His nurse, played by Helen Burgess, is dismissed when she criticizes the administration for neglecting a patient. When a charity patient in the pet of a young virgin genius loses his arm through neglect, Trent quits. His society sweetheart, however, breaks their engagement.

CAUSE OF FLU NOW KNOWN

Immunisation A Stage Nearer—

The primary cause of influenza has been finally determined by research work carried out during the recent epidemic.

There are two related but distinct strains of the influenza virus—human and swine. It has been found that the human type of virus was the primary cause in this winter's epidemic in Manchester.

The virus was isolated from 13 cases of epidemic influenza. All the strains examined were identified as of the human type.

Tests made provide a possible method for determining immune persons from those who are susceptible to the disease. These tests may prove valuable when a satisfactory prophylactic, or preventive, is available.

The researches were carried out by Mr. Leslie Hoyle and Dr. W. Fairbrother, of the Department of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, University of Manchester.

Chain Of Proof

Among the facts they recorded was the identity of strains of virus isolated in Manchester this winter, with the strain which has now been maintained in ferrets for three years by Medical Research Council workers at Hampstead.

The "British Medical Journal," commenting on the account of the work which Mr. Hoyle and Dr. Fairbrother contribute to the current issue, says:

"As the cause of widespread epidemics this virus now stands fully accepted."

"Among items in the chain of proof is the case of accidental transmission back from ferret to man, which is now put on record in the annual report of the Medical Research Council. Attributed to the sneeze of an infected ferret, this attack was fully studied from the serological standpoint, and there are other good reasons for regarding this as its true origin."

Mr. Hoyle and Dr. Fairbrother write:

"Recent work indicates that prophylactic vaccination may soon be available for general application. If it is possible to differentiate immune from susceptible persons, the application of active immunisation will be assisted."

THE DEVIL DOLL

Familiar and beloved though he is to patrons of the screen, Lionel Barrymore is recognizable only by his inimitable artistry, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Devil Doll," which opens to-day at the King's Theatre.

Barrymore impersonates an ancient woman. In wig and skirts and petticoats, the veteran master of characterization achieves something that he has never attempted before. His change from the heavy-browed, shaggy-haired man he is, to the character of a being old woman is a miracle of the screen.

The story concerns the career of a half-mad scientist, who conceives a formula that reduces animals and human beings to a sixth of their natural size but leaves them hopeless morons, subject to the will of their insane master. The laboratory, with its macabre scenes of tiny humans is one of the tremendously startling spectacles in which Barrymore has ever participated.

MORE SHIPS BUILT

A substantial increase in the world's output of new shipping in 1936 is shown in the annual summary issued by Lloyd's Register.

The total tonnage building has risen from 1,543,153 at the beginning of the year to 2,251,221 on December 31, an increase of 708,068 tons. The figures for the United Kingdom show an increase of 220,556 tons—nearly 30 per cent.—at December, 1936.

Tonnage launched last year throughout the world was 2,117,924 gross. Of this, British yards put about 558,257 tons, or 40.4 per cent. of the aggregate. World tonnage launched in 1936 showed a 62.7 per cent. increase on the output for 1935.

Lloyd's Register states that as the tonnage laid down during 1936 has exceeded by $22,000 tons that launched during the year, there is good reason to expect that the renewed activity in world shipbuilding will be maintained in the immediate future.

PEACETIME ACTIVITIES

In the midst of warlike utterances from the governments of nations, and an international armaments race, comes proof that peacetime activities are not altogether forgotten.

Agricultural tractors which Ford Motor Company Limited, Dagenham, are now manufacturing for domestic and export purposes will reassure even the most pessimistic. Official figures for 1936 show that more than 50 per cent of the number of tractors made at Dagenham were exported and that the total number of tractors exported last year was 50 per cent.

higher than the 1935 total. Distribution of the tractors was worldwide and included Norway, Japan, New Zealand, Australia, India, Holland, America and South Africa.

Most of the tractors made for export are loaded on ships at the Ford Jetty at Dagenham.

Last year the new Row Crop tractor was introduced and the demand from overseas was immediate. This type of tractor is a three-wheeler which permits working the rows without damaging the crops. This tractor has been very favourably received, especially in America where great numbers have already been shipped.

BRITISH NAVY AND THE BLOCKADE ON BILBAO

Commons Debate Attracts Interest

London, April 14.

The presence of a number of foreign Ambassadors and Ministers in the distinguished strangers' gallery marked the interest aroused by the House of Commons debate on the labour motion of censure in following terms. The House, taking note of the Prime Minister's statement on the situation at Bilbao, deplores the failure of His Majesty's Government to give protection to British merchant ships on their lawful occasions.—British Wireless.

HOME SECRETARY'S POINTS

The First speaker in the debate for the Government was the Home Secretary. He began by emphasizing the adherence of the Government, in common with the Government of France, to the policy of non-intervention. He then recalled that in August and September last, when the naval preponderance in the civil war was still on the Government side, the Madrid authorities had sought to declare a blockade of Ceuta and Melilla, and other ports. The British Government refused to recognise the blockade but then just as now, directions were issued to British ships for their guidance in view of the dangers which threatened. It was, therefore, he claimed impossible to maintain that action taken in reference to the situation at Bilbao as represented by the new policy.

SITUATION EXPLAINED

Sir John Simon proceeded to give information on the situation derived principally from Admiralty reports. On April 8, the destroyer, Blanche, reported that there was a close blockade and that serious incidents were likely if merchant ships attempted to enter port. When the report was received H.M.S. Blanche was instructed to inform any British merchant ship bound for Bilbao of this state of affairs, and to advise it most strongly not to attempt to enter port. Later the Government decided to inform British ships that it desired them not to enter Bilbao on account of the dangerous situation there. The action claimed was on all fours with that taken last autumn.

Of course the Home Secretary added, the British navy could force its way into any port in Spain. It could sweep a passage clear of mines, but that action would not be consistent with the policy of non-intervention to which it was their primary duty to be faithful.

General Franco had been told expressly that the British Government could not recognise belligerent rights, and that the warning given to British ships would not be considered to have absolved him from the responsibility for any damage to a British ship which disregarded the warning. Sir John reminded the House that the British navy had for months discharged great humanitarian work off the coasts of Spain. They had carried 17,000 innocent people to safety. But within the last two months, on the advice of the Admiralty, it had been thought unsafe because of danger from mines for British warships to enter the ports on the Basque coast and work had to be done so far as possible by ships which were not men of war.

Sir John claimed, in conclusion, that he had justified the action of the Government to the House and to the country.

SURRENDER OF RIGHTS

Moving the censure motion, Mr. Attlee said that the Opposition regarded the Government's action in warning British ships against entering the port of Bilbao as a surrender of rights which had always been maintained for British shipping, and a surrender made in the face of a grave breach of the international law. The Spanish insurgents had no belligerent rights, and no right to blockade Spanish ports. The prevention of British ships from trading with Spain was no part of the non-intervention policy so long as they carried neither munitions nor volunteers, and the issue, therefore, was simple.

British ships, on their lawful occasions, had been turned back by the rebels. What was to be done? The Cabinet came to a decision. The Prime Minister made a firm declaration against interference with British shipping—the white ensign is hoisted. Then it is run down, and a white flag is run up—British ships were to all intents and purposes told that they must not go to Bilbao. Yet there was no question, this time, of a startling world war or of great trouble with a great foreign power.

The threat to which the Government had surrendered came from the rebels whose land forces were on land and who had no great naval strength.

INFORMATION SOUGHT

Mr. Attlee asked for detailed information of evidence upon which the Government had reached their decision and sources from which it came. He declared that Franco, who was falling generally, was dependent for a local success upon starving women and children, and the British Government had acquiesced and the Government had no right to put upon British sailors such humiliation.

The Liberal speaker, Sir Archibald Sinclair, who was following the Home Secretary, argued that Government action in discouraging British food ships from entering Basque ports was an intervention in civil war, and not as Sir John Simon claimed, a part of the non-intervention policy.

The next speaker was Mr. Winston Churchill who said that he was a partisan of neither side in Spain, but it would be madness to break the blockade which the insurgents had established, and according to British naval officers effectively established, if Great Britain was to retain that policy in relation to the Spanish civil war which was so useful for the prevention of its spreading into Europe.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Mr. Churchill ended with a suggestion for the co-operation of the five powers whose navies were joining in the control scheme, in proposing some solution of the Spanish civil war. He hoped that such co-operation in the case of Spain might lead to a lessening of the tension in Europe generally. The debate, which continues, will be wound up for the Government by the Foreign Secretary.—British Wireless.

SIR JOHN SIMON INTERRUPTED

London, Apr. 14.

Sir John Simon's reply in the House of Commons to Labour's vote of censure concerning the British policy of non-interference in the Bilbao blockade, was broken by angry interruptions, and a crowd of house listened to day's proceedings.

Major C. R. Attlee, Labour leader, moved the vote of censure deploring the failure of the Government to give protection to British merchant shipping.

Major Attlee claimed the Government's action in warning shipping that it should not enter Bilbao was acquiescence in a grave breach of international law.

The Labour leader exhibited a cable from the President of the Basque republic stating that neither the Basques nor General Franco's forces had laid any mines in the approaches of Bilbao during the past fortnight. There had been 58 inward and outward sailings from the port without molestation. The batteries at Bilbao kept the rebel fleet 15 miles from shore, it stated.

FRESH UPROAR

Replying to the Opposition on behalf of the Government, Sir John Simon declared it was the Government's policy to avoid all complications which might prejudice good international relations, and to strictly refrain from all interference in the internal affairs of Spain.

As Sir John proceeded to explain the Government's attitude, he was almost continuously interrupted by derisive Labourite comments and ironical cheers.

Sir John declared that H.M.S. Blanche reported on April 8 that there was a close blockade of Bilbao and serious incidents were likely to arise if merchant ships attempted to enter the port.

A fresh uproar was caused by Sir John's comment that a British commander on the spot was a better authority than the Basque Government.

There was another storm when the Opposition demanded to hear the text of the Board of Trade's communication warning ships not to enter Bilbao.

Replying to Mr. David Lloyd George, Sir John emphasised that

U.S.-MEXICAN TREATY

Friendly American Gesture

Washington, April 13.

The United States has performed another good neighbour gesture. Mr. Cordell Hull and the Mexican Ambassador signing a treaty, repealing that section of the United States-Mexican Treaty of 1853 which granted the United States the right to transport armed forces across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec which, before the completion of the Panama Canal, constituted an important short-cut between strategic Atlantic and Pacific Coast areas.

Troops have never been moved across the territory but the right to do so has long constituted to Central American minds as a sinister relic of U. S. imperialism which the United States Government is now liquidating in the interests of a friendly pan-American policy.—Reuter.

EARLIER ANTICIPATIONS

London, April 14.

Three British Cabinet members, and possibly Mr. Lloyd George are supposed to take part in to-day's debate in the House of Commons on the Government's policy concerning the blockade of Bilbao.

Mr. Baldwin, it is believed, will justify the Government's action by drawing attention to the mine danger near Bilbao.

The Opposition denies that such a danger exists, and is backed up by the shipping interests who are inclined to give credit to a declaration to this effect, given by the Valencia Government.

The Government, however, is able to draw attention to General Franco's advice that the minefields in this area have recently been enlarged.—Transoceanic News Service.

GOVERNOR LEAVES IN BLAZE OF POPULARITY

FAREWELL ADDRESS

Reading the farewell address,

Hon. Sir Henry Pollock said:—

TO HIS EXCELLENCY SIR ANDREW CALDECOTT, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., GOVERNOR AND COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF OF THE COLONY OF HONG KONG AND ITS DEPENDENCIES AND VICE-ADMIRAL OF THE SAME.

Sir, Whilst heartily congratulating you upon your promotion to Ceylon, the people of Hong Kong very much deplore the drastic curtailment of your term of Office here.

They had counted upon the knowledge and exceptional grasp of the Colony's affairs acquired by you in so comparatively short a time, to guide them with wisdom and understanding during the remainder of your normal term of Office here, and they feel that their keen disappointment at your early transfer to Colombo is excusable, and in no way reflects upon your successor.

Having no knowledge of the reasons of high British policy which brought about your transfer at a moment so promising to British interests in South China, they can but accept the situation.

Arriving in Hong Kong at a time when the trade depression had reduced Government revenue and a depreciated currency had increased expenditure, you succeeded, by wise measures of finance and the introduction of economies, in tiding over a very difficult budgetary position.

You have continuously striven to strengthen the bonds of friendship between Canton and Hong Kong, upon which so much of the prosperity of both cities depends.

To you also belongs the credit for surmounting the difficulties which, prior to your arrival, appeared to be preventing Hong Kong from assuming her natural geographic role as one of the chief centres for air traffic between the Far East, Europe and the United States.

You have likewise greatly encouraged the raising of local subscriptions for the King George the Fifth Memorial Fund, and have been instrumental in local areas being set aside as open spaces and playing-grounds for the people.

It must be gratifying to you that during your Governorship the Shing Mun Dam, forming the Jubilee Reservoir, has been opened, thus considerably alleviating, though not altogether removing, our water troubles. Other important works, completed in your term of Office are the Central British School, and the new Gaol at Stanley.

In many other matters of local and general importance your sound judgment and diplomatic tact have contributed to a successful solution, but above all you have gained the affection of the whole community by the human, democratic and understanding manner in which you have invited different sections of the residents to come before you and express freely their views.

We are confident that in your new Governorship you will earn fresh laurels, and we wish health and happiness to you and Lady Caldecott who, during her all too short stay here has endeared herself to us not only by her charm of manner but also by her keen interest in local welfare matters.

On the present occasion we will not say goodbye but merely au revoir, because, despite lack of precedent, we cannot help hoping that you may eventually be able to return to Hong Kong as Governor, to resume your work here.

And right glad we shall be to welcome you back.

Hong Kong, 15th April, 1937.

CHINESE VALEDICTION

The English version of the Chinese valediction to His Excellency the Governor, was read by the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall as follows:—

TO HIS EXCELLENCY SIR ANDREW CALDECOTT, K.C.M.G., C.B.E., GOVERNOR OF HONG KONG.

A wise man once wrote, "On the path of a virtuous ruler a great light shines." When he comes, the people are glad; when he departs, his memory stays with them." Very true are these words. Too few in our time walk this ancient road; Your Excellency is one of those few. Your Excellency is open-minded and generous, courteous and warm-hearted, devoted to duty and a good friend, an accomplished scholar and a true gentleman.

Appointed in early youth a cadet in the Mainland, you became first a District Officer. Your rare ability was very early recognised, and you were chosen to fill many important posts. Wherever you went you won golden opinions as an administrator. During your thirty years' service promotions, honours and decorations have been showered upon you.

About a year ago the Government of Great Britain paid a tribute to your ability by appointing you to be Governor of Hong Kong. When the decision was announced the people of the Colony were overjoyed, and hastened to tell each other the glad news; for, to them, it was as though some great man of the times of Han, Huang Pa or Chien Pu-I, had come back to the earth.

When Your Excellency set foot in this territory, your first care was the welfare of its people; your administration has been firm but kind, and, above all, liberal. In all that you have done you have acted fairly and openly; by this means you have won your way without imposing fear, and kept good order without the need of force.

When Your Excellency reached us, lean times had affected the public revenue, and measures to restore it were urgently needed. You realised that the straitened circumstances of the people would not admit of increased taxation, and decided rather to reduce official salaries, including your own, to meet the crisis. This course you took to lighten the burden of the people, and so to give them time to recover. Thus it is plain to all that you looked upon the people as on wounded men who need succour.

Though little more than a year has passed since Your Excellency assumed the Government, peace and quiet reign within our borders, and trouble and calamity have no place there; rulers and ruled are of one mind; every day strengthens the bonds of friendship with our neighbours.

Such a beneficent rule is acknowledged by all; and we feel that it is worthy to be carved on metal or stone, or to be set to music and celebrated in song, for it deserves more than one short-lived eulogy.

Your Excellency's genius does not lie only in administration. You are also a profound scholar, a skilled musician, and an accomplished painter. You have always been ready to praise and encourage Chinese who have shown aptitude for painting and calligraphy, and for this reason the practice of the fine arts in Hong Kong has progressed as never before. There is a saying, "A great soul produces great art." Is not this true of Your Excellency?

We know how Hsi Fu Chi owes his fame to a good wife, and how Liang Hung attained the goal of his aspirations through marriage with Meng Kuang. Like them, Your Excellency has achieved fame and rendered great service with the help of Lady Caldecott.

Her Ladyship is gentle, graceful, full of unassuming grace. Her household acknowledges her fairness; you, her public-spirited help; the people, her friendliness. A lover of good deeds, she is ever solicitous for the public welfare, and does her best to help and further charitable work for the Chinese people. She and Your Excellency are worthily matched.

In the Spring of this year the British Government promoted Your Excellency to the Governorship of Ceylon. Such twofold elevation in a period of less than two years is an unsurpassed honour in these days. In ancient times, Su Liang was promoted thrice in one year, and all men hailed him as a genius. Your Excellency is a second Su Liang. Yet, recently, when we went to offer our congratulations, you sorrowfully said, "Promotion is of little moment. I can only feel regret that my stay has been so short, and sorrow that I must leave my good Chinese friends." Unfiring in the work of Government, always fair and kind to the people you govern, a true friend to the Chinese, Your Excellency exemplifies the saying, "Sincerity of heart shows itself in action."

Now, as the day of Your Excellency's departure draws near, we Chinese feel heavy-hearted, as one suffering a personal loss. All our efforts to stay your departing chariot have been without avail. All that is left to us is to sing the Songs of the Tree that Shaded Us, and of the Grain that Nourished Us. "Humanity, Righteousness, Loyalty, Faith, he who finds unwearied joy in these four," said Mencius, "is of Heaven's nobility." The men of old sought Heaven's nobility, and earthly honours came to them with it. Your Excellency, too, has sought Heaven's nobility. Soon we shall see your achievements glowing brighter and brighter like the sun as he rises into the sky, and your ever-successful career soaring like the Roc's flight over the earth.

This is our respectful prayer. From The Chinese Community of Hong Kong.

The 15th day of April, 1937.

GOVERNOR'S REPLY

Replying, His Excellency said:—Gentlemen.—When I received from Sir Henry Pollock and from Dr. Kotewall advance copies of the wonderful addresses with which you have presented me this afternoon I went into my office at Government House, turned the key, blushed, and felt exceedingly uncomfortable. I do not suppose that looking-glasses, being inanimate, have feelings; but if they had I could now sympathize with the mirror which, conscious of its own very ordinary composition of glass and quicksilver, found itself credited with all the good and beautiful but extraneous things which it reflected. And so my mind passed on to a quotation which I remembered having heard from the lips of a lecturer in Political Science at Oxford. Sir William Hornell has kindly traced its original source for me; it is a translation of a phrase occurring in a letter written by Joseph Marie Conte de Maistre who died in 1821. His words, in their English translation, are "Every country has the government it deserves." That is a statement of the mirror principle, to which I have just alluded. The most able administrators have failed in an atmosphere of ill-will, misrepresentation and disservice, whereas the ordinary plain man, in whose category I am proud enough to claim my place, will with the gift of friendship from others, benefiting from their advice and sure of their understanding and support, sometimes make good.

I am most grateful to learn from these Addresses that my brief service here has been acceptable to the people of Hong Kong, but the real authors of whatever success there has been are the persons whose names are subscribed to the Addresses and the many others whom they represent. And to them I must add the name of perhaps the most important contributor, my wife. Indeed I cannot refrain from citing the words which the Son of Strach put into the mouth of personified Wisdom:—"In three things I was beautified; The concord of brethren, and friendship of neighbours, and a woman and a husband that walk together in agreement."

SOUVENIR OF HONG KONG

And now I must come to the sad business of valediction. I spoke at some length in Legislative Council yesterday but there are one or two little things that I want to add. I received last Saturday a souvenir of Hong Kong which I value very much: it was a Chinese scroll painting from the brushes of two Chinese and one European artist, and is thus a symbol in itself of what the Hong Kong Working Artists Guild stands for. I very much hope that this institution will never be allowed to suffer from a lack of interest, encouragement or support. I have been delighted to hear from Dr. Kotewall that he and a number of influential people are determined that it shall not. The various other Societies devoted to Art, Music, Literature and Drama have my best wishes for their continued success; the Muses are well and happily established here as old Hong Kong residents, and long may they remain so.

CHARITABLE SOCIETIES

It has been said that a good thing cannot be praised too often or a bad one too often denounced. I therefore want to take off my hat, figuratively, once again to all who are supporting by subscriptions or by personal service one or more of our many charitable societies. I wish that I had had more time to familiarize myself with all their many fields of activity, and there is one particular subject on which my mind and conscience are very uneasy.

AN APPEAL

I know that there is a great deal of cruelty to animals going on in this Colony, concerning which my Chinese and British friends have expressed to me an equal disgust. May I ask all of you here this afternoon to ease my conscience and give this matter your most earnest attention? A lot of education, as well as preventive and punitive work is necessary, and I hope that as many responsible as possible will rally to the support of the local branch of the R.S.P.C.A.

DAILY THOUGHT

That, Gentlemen, is all that I have to say except to assure you that Hong Kong and our Hong Kong friends will always be in the daily thought and daily talk of my wife and myself. The splendid screen with which the Chinese have presented me is not only a thing of beauty in itself and therefore intrinsically a joy for ever, but guests and visitors who see and admire it will ask us what the writing means, and how we came by it, and so the conversation will be turned to our happy memories of the Colony which we have both loved so much and from which we are being so prematurely parted.

I may perhaps have bored or even distressed you sometimes with my frequent references to Malaya, but you have kindly borne with me; I trust that the kind people of Ceylon will equally bear with me when I enlarge upon Hong Kong, even though, if I may recall the words of a once popular song, "they may not believe me when I tell them, as I'm certainly going to tell them, how wonderful you are." (Prolonged Applause.)

THOSE PRESENT

Among those present, besides His Excellency the Governor were:—His Excellency the General Officer Commanding, Major-General A. W. Bartholomew, The Colonial Secretary (Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith), the Attorney General (Hon. Mr. C. G. Alabaster), the Secretary for Chinese Affairs (Hon. Mr. R. A. C. North), the Colonial Treasurer (Hon. Mr. W. J. Carrie), Hon. Mr. R. M. SCENE AT STATUE PIER

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Caldecott will bid official farewell to Hong Kong at 11 a.m. at Queen's Statue Pier, where they will embark on the motor launch Britannia and proceed to Kowloon to board the liner, Empress of Japan, which sails at noon for Vancouver, via Shanghai, Japan and ports.

Queen's Statue Pier has been artistically decorated with coloured flags and palms for the occasion.

Outside the wharf, in Connaught Road Central, will be the Guards of Honour provided by the Royal Navy, under Lieut. H. A. Green, R.A.N. Seaforth Highlanders, under Major I. C. Barclay, Royal Air Force, under Flight-Lieut. J. E. M. McCallum, and the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, under Capt. H. Owen Hughes.

The route along which His Excellency and Lady Caldecott will travel by car from Government House to the Pier will be lined with troops. Motor cycle escort will be provided by the Hong Kong Volunteer Defence Corps, under Capt. H. G. Williams, and the Hong Kong Police.

STREET SLEEPERS' SHELTERS

The three shelters of the Street Sleepers' Shelter Society, closed last night when a hot meal was given to the inmates. The Executive Committee would like to take the opportunity of thanking all the volunteers who have so kindly given of their time during the past winter.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

An elegant, but to most people, extremely baffling examination paper could be set from the handbook on "Time Measurement" which has just been issued, from the Science Museum of South Kensington (Stationary Office, 2s.). For the handbook gives a detailed and illustrated catalogue of the various devices for measuring time that are contained in that museum, and some of the details might disturb the plain man's idea about dates.

For example, when were electric clocks introduced? Some time in the present century? Long before that, Alexander Bain patented one in 1845. On the other hand, adaptations of the sundial principle were still being patented in 1892, and there are details here of a modern "universal helio-chronometer" (which is sundial writ large and made in Preston) or of Wheatstone's solar chronometer with which "the time is indicated on a dial by hour and minute hands as in an ordinary watch."

Away at the other end of things are Egyptian "shadow clocks" of the tenth century B.C. and an Egyptian water-clock of 1400 B.C. Yet the "water-clock or clepsydra" was still being made in Britain as late as 1700, when it had at least acquired the useful habit of indicating hours of equal length, which was not the method of its distant Egyptian fore-runners.

But in Japan modern time-reckoning by equal hours did not arrive until 1870; before that change quite complicated clocks with elaborate striking arrangements were designed to divide the periods of daylight and darkness each into six divisions.

The disadvantage of dials and shadow clocks is their dependence on the sun; therefore we find "nocturnals," made about 1700, to ascertain the time by night from the "pointers" of the Great Bear. Nevertheless, what seems to be the oldest mechanical clock still existing in Britain, a turret clock for Salisbury Cathedral, was made about 1386.

In the history of time-keeping the oldest and the newest devices have overlapped curiously in their respective spheres.

A DISTINGUISHED
SEA CAPTAIN'Safe Barr's' Life
Of Adventure

Capt. James Clayton Barr, a great sailor who commanded many famous Cunard liners and figured in thrilling adventures, has died at his home in Wallasey, Cheshire, at the age of 81. Among his feats was the rescue of over 500 persons from the s.s. Volturno disaster.

Capt. Barr, Commodore of the Cunard fleet when he retired 20 years ago, was known on the North Atlantic as "Safe Barr."

He was a native of Burnley, and went to sea at the age of 17. As an apprentice in sail who, on one voyage after another had to round Cape Horn, he developed the qualities of seamanship that were to make his career so noteworthy. He had been shipwrecked three times before he joined the Cunard as a fourth officer in 1885. He served in many vessels, including the Umbra and Etruria, before being given his first command in 1899. This was the Catalonia, and his first trip in her was to South Africa with troops during the Boer War.

His vessel was employed on the coast of South Africa, for some time afterwards, and eventually became a depot for Boer prisoners.

Subsequently he had command of the Lucania, the Saxonia, the Caronia, and other ships, and for a time, when she was quite new, the Mauretania.

HELP TO BURNING SHIP

As captain of the Carmania in October, 1913, he was crossing the North Atlantic when he received an urgent cry for help from the s.s. Volturno. This vessel, with 654 people on board, was on fire 80 miles away.

Sending out an SOS to all ships in the vicinity, he raced to the Volturno and was the first to arrive. Some hours later he was directing 10 vessels in the work of rescue.

A heavy gale was blowing, and in the face of difficulties and dangers that at one time seemed insurmountable 521 persons were saved. The Volturno, which was a mass of fire, then had to be abandoned.

Capt. Barr was still in command of the Carmania when the Great War broke out. At the request of the Admiralty he became a Commander, R.N.R., and his ship was converted into an armed merchant cruiser.

He sailed in her as navigating officer and took part in the great fight against the German Cap Trafalgar, for which he received the C.B.

Other exciting little adventures followed, but early in 1915 he was taken ill and had to be invalided home. Declared unfit for further service in the R.N.R., he returned to the Cunard, and commanded the Mauretania, the Saxonia and the Carpathia before retiring in October, 1916.

TREATY OF LOCARNO

London, April 14.

His Majesty's Government are still bound by the first paragraph of Section Three of the text of proposals of March 19, 1935 by which they declared, as regards their obligations to France and Belgium, that nothing that had happened before or since the breach of the Treaty of Locarno, could be considered as having freed the signatories of that Treaty from any of their obligations, or guarantees and that the latter subsisted in their entirety.

This statement was made by the Foreign Secretary in the House of Commons in answer to a member who enquired if Britain were still bound by the Locarno Treaty in view of Germany's denunciation and Belgium's approaching release from its obligation.—

FINANCIAL ORGANISATION OF
COLONIAL GOVERNMENTS

A voluminous communique was forwarded to us by the Colonial Secretariat yesterday, dealing with the proposal for the reorganisation of the financial administration (from the consultative aspect) of Colonial Governments.

The salient points of this communique are printed hereunder:—

In a circular despatch of June 10, 1932, the Secretary of State observed that he was impressed with the desirability of each Colonial Government having at its disposal some member of its staff charged with the special duty of advising the Government on all financial questions; he suggested that this duty might appropriately be assigned to the Treasurer, and that definite steps should be taken to stress that officer's functions in this respect, and to give him adequate opportunity for exercising them.

The replies to that despatch indicated in most cases that the proposals which the Secretary of State had made were not understood to involve much, if any, change in existing practice, and that the advice of the Treasurer was always sought in regard to the financial aspects of Government policy. Nevertheless, the experience of the past few years, during which the Colonies have been exposed to the effects of the general depression, has created a strong impression that the machinery in most Colonies for developing a sound, progressive, and consistent policy in the financial and economic sphere is far from being as effective as it should and can be made. It has also drawn urgent attention to the fundamental importance of sound economic and financial policy as an essential basis of good government. In these circumstances, it has been found necessary to give the whole matter further consideration.

TO INITIATE IMPROVEMENTS

The word "financial" has various connotations, and it is necessary to emphasize that in this discussion it is intended to relate to matters of policy and general control, and not to technical questions of accounting. The essential feature of the organization now to be described is the inclusion, in the central machinery of the administration, of a financial officer fitted by training and experience to advise upon the whole financial and economic policy of the Government. It will be the business of this officer to indicate the measures necessary to maintain financial and economic policy on proper lines; to point out weaknesses where they exist; and to initiate improvements.

SUPER SCALE POSTS

The normal field of recruitment for the higher financial staff must inevitably be the Colonial Administrative Service, though the door should never be barred to officers of any branch of the Service who are suitable for this class of work. The posts of Financial Secretary will themselves be "super-scale" posts in the Colonial Administrative Service, and in order to secure that a succession of trained personnel should be available to fill these posts, as the product of a system designed for the purpose, the officers who will assist the Financial Secretary should normally be selected from members of the Administrative Service. It is not contemplated that officers who are posted to the financial branch of the Secretariat should be retained permanently in that capacity, or that their experience in the branch should necessarily be limited to a specified or to a single occasion. On the contrary, it is an essential feature of the organization that it should include a definite, though flexible, system of exchange between duties in the financial branch and duties of an administrative character elsewhere.

To sum up: an organization of the nature contemplated has certain very definite advantages as compared with the system which is to-day followed in most Colonies. It provides within the central Secretariat for a trained staff charged with the special function of exercising financial and economic control, as distinct from the subsidiary function of accounting for moneys received and spent; it ensures that the financial and economic aspects of Government policy in all its branches are kept constantly under expert review, and that new proposals are not put forward to the Governor for approval without having been fully examined and criticized by officers specially equipped to advise on their financial and economic as well as their political implications. Finally it provides, as part of the ordinary machinery of Government, a means by which the ablest officers in the Service may acquire the experience necessary to deal effectively with those problems of economics and finance which confront us to-day, and which will increasingly demand the best that the Service can give.

CEYLON TENNIS

Malayan Champion
Beaten

H. C. Sansoni, who visited Malaya last August and annexed the men's open singles title, was beaten in the Ceylon championship at Newara Eliya 6-2, 6-2, 6-1 in a semi-final by Y.R. Savur of India.

Savur went on to win the Ceylon title the next day from N. Krishnasamy, a fellow Indian who had held the Ceylon title for the last two years, by 6-2, 6-3, 7-5.

Miss D. Sansoni, ladies singles champion of Malaya, lost her mixed doubles title, which she had held with O.M.L. Pinto for the past five years.

Miss Sansoni was defending her singles title against Miss Woodbridge of India but the game was interrupted by rain and had to be postponed. D. M. Dando, the former Malacca player, won the veterans' singles title.

RADIO HOCKEY VICTORY

The Radio won an unexpected victory over the C.B.A. by a score of 1-nil in a hockey match played at the U.S.R.C. ground yesterday. The winning goal was scored by Awtar Singh about twenty minutes after the commencement of the game.

The C.B.A. team commenced a counter-attack during the second half, forcing seven short corners, but were unsuccessful in their attempts. S. Fowler sent a hard shot that nearly enabled his side to equalise the score, but was stopped by Clarke who was hurt as a result of the blockade. A few minutes later S. Fowler again delivered a stroke that had the goalkeeper beaten. At this point Hussain played cleverly and cleared.

The last fifteen minutes saw C.B.A. pressing strongly with great hope, and the Radio were bottled in their own half, and although the C.B.A. had most of the play they could not find the net.

The next match had been tentatively arranged for April 25.

BAER TO FIGHT TOMMY FARR Public Imagination Roused

TEN-GUINEA RINGSIDE SEATS

London, April 15.
To-night's fight between Max Baer, ex-heavyweight champion, and Tommy Farr, Welsh, British and Empire champion, at Harringay Stadium has caught the imagination of the public. No fight in recent years has created such a stir.

The receipts now amounting to £17,000 are expected to reach £20,000, with a capacity crowd of 13,000. Ringside seats are selling for ten guineas, the highest since the Carpenter-Beckett fight. Baer will receive about £6,000 and Farr £3,500.

Baer is one to three favourite, though Farr will be given a chance in view of the fact that he is five years younger and may tire out the American if he is able to avoid sledge-hammer blows.

Interviewed by Reuter, Baer said that he is really serious about leaving nothing to chance and means to end the fight as soon as possible, though he is not underestimating the abilities of his opponent.

Farr, who told Reuter that this is just "another fight for me," is confident that the outcome will go to prove that British heavyweights are not so bad as painted.

The following are comparative figures:—Baer: Age 28, height 6 ft. 2 in., weight 15 st., reach 61 in.; Farr: Age 23, height 6 ft. 1 in., weight 14 st. 4 lbs., reach 79 in.—Reuter.

BRISK BUSINESS

Mr. Sydney Halls, the promoter, declares that he has never known such brisk business so long before a fight as that which is pouring into his office for the Max Baer-Tommy Farr fight at Harringay on April 15.

The main rush has been on the 12s. and 24s. seats but it is impossible to obtain a seat in the first three rows of the ten guineas accommodation. It looks like a £20,000 house.

The publicity which Baer is getting is thought to be the reason added to the fact that in training Baer appears to have meant it when he said he had given up being a playboy.

LOAD OFF MIND

Baer declares it was a load off his mind when the British Boxing Board of Control had agreed to allow his fight, holding that the failure of the New York Stadium Athletic Club to grant licences to Baer and Cecil Hoffman on February 24, released Baer from his alleged agreement with the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

A FAIR BREAK

"I knew I should get a fair break from the British board," said Baer, when told of the Board's decision at his training camp at the Ace of Spades on the Kingston by-pass, adding, "I can now get right ahead with my training. I haven't a care in the world."

Baer's original sparring partners have been discharged as he was afraid of doing them an injury. He has engaged Joe Zealand, an American heavyweight, and two Englishmen, Bob Cargill and Bill Wainwright.

There is a rumour that Joe Louis will arrive in England in July and that if Baer has disposed of all the other contenders the two will meet in this country.

NO REASON NOW TO PROTEST

Mr. Eden On The Blockade

London, Apr. 14.
Concluding the debate in the House of Commons on the Labour censure of British policy with respect to the Spanish war, Mr. Anthony Eden, Foreign Secretary, recalled that Britain had not protested when the Spanish Government last August declared a blockade of the insurgent ports in Morocco. There was no more reason for the Government to do so in the case of the blockade of Bilbao, he argued.

He emphasised that belligerent rights could not be granted to one side. Had Britain followed precedents and granted belligerent rights, then both sides would have been entitled to hold up British ships attempting to break the blockade, even on the high seas.

Replying to an earlier question by Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, as to whether a ship disarmed by the Government's warning to keep clear of Bilbao would be protected if attacked before she reached the three-mile limit, Mr. Eden said the answer was definitely in the affirmative. But the Government was bound to warn ships of the dangers on the Bilbao coast, in view of which the Government could not guarantee the safety of ships in territorial waters of Bilbao.

MUCH DESTRUCTION

Mr. Eden quoted a telegram from the British Consul at Bilbao, saying there had been daily bombing and much destruction in the past fortnight.

He also had a telegram from the Ship-owners' Parliamentary Committee saying members were satisfied the Government was doing its utmost to protect the industry.

Mr. Eden said if it became necessary for the protection of British shipping to carry out mine-sweeping outside Spanish waters, the Government would certainly consider it. But it was a most formidable task.

He emphasised that forcible action within territorial waters would amount to intervention. Dealing with the plea of Mr. Winston Churchill for arbitration, the Foreign Secretary said if ever Britain could make a contribution to bring the conflict to an end that contribution would be eagerly made.—Reuter.

VOTE OF CENSURE DEFEATED

London, April 14.—In the House of Commons to-day, the Labour vote of censure "deploring the failure of the Government to protect British shipping," in connection with the insurgent blockade at Bilbao was defeated by 345 votes to 130.—Reuter.

PRESIDENT BOAT DELAYED

New York, April 14.
Two hundred and fifty passengers for Europe were delayed to-day when the liner President Roosevelt failed to sail at noon owing to a sit-down strike.

The crew refused to sign articles unless the company rejected nine engine-room replacements to which the seamen objected because, it is alleged, they did not support the recent strike.—Reuter.

ARMY APPOINTMENTS

London, April 14.
Lieutenant-Colonel A.B. Thomson, of The Buffs, has been appointed Assistant Adjutant and Quartermaster-General in charge of the administration of British troops in China, with effect from October 2.

Colonel M.A. Studd has been appointed to the corresponding post in Malaya, with effect from September 14.—Reuter.

TWO EXPLOSIVE FACTORIES IN MELBOURNE

Melbourne, April 14.
Two explosive factories for defence purposes costing a total of £300,000 will be established at Melbourne as the result of an arrangement between the Federal Government and Imperial Chemical Industries, it is announced by the managing director of the I.C.I. in Australia.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

EGYPT PLEASED WITH BRITAIN

Tribute To Attitude At Montreux

Abolition Of Capitulations

Montreux, April 15.
It is understood that the Commission this morning will discuss the transition period to complete the abolition of capitulations, one of the most important items on the agenda. The French favour an eighteen-year period. The Egyptians concede twelve and possibly fifteen will be accepted as a compromise.

The French put in an amendment dividing the transitional period into three stages: Firstly, the maintenance of the status quo in which any foreign judge dropping out will be replaced by foreigners; secondly, the gradual elimination of foreigners till two-thirds of the judges are Egyptians;

The British proposed that a new article be added to the draft convention based on the provisions of the Anglo-Egyptian Treaty whereby the King of Egypt would pledge himself that no discriminatory legislation of any kind against foreigners will be enacted.

According to an impartial observer who was present at all the meetings, there was a growing tendency at the conference to split the board 'line between the Anglo-Egyptian and remaining delegations.

The Egyptians pay free tributes to the attitude of the British Government which they consider to be quite proper and one displaying utmost loyalty towards the Treaty.—Reuter.

NON-INTERVENTION IN SPAIN

London, April 14.
The Chairman's sub-committee of the international committee for the application of the agreement regarding non-intervention in Spain, will meet at the Foreign Office to-morrow morning. It is understood the committee will have before it a communication from the non-intervention board regarding the date for coming into force of the control scheme, and it is believed that the date recommended is early next week. The question of the withdrawal of volunteers from Spain will also be on the sub-committee's agenda.—British Wireless.

GRAPHIC TALES OF REFUGEES

Berbera, April 14.
The Abyssinian refugees who crossed the frontier into British Somaliland tell graphic stories of the sufferings of the natives, some walking eight hundred miles to escape the Italian massacre. Hundreds died on the way to the frontier whilst thousands are homeless in Gala where their property have been confiscated. The food shortage is acute.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

NAVAL BATTLE IN BAY OF BISCAY

Hendaye, April 14.
Prospects of a naval battle in the Bay of Biscay are heightened by the news that certain units of the reconstituted Spanish Government fleet are heading for these waters.—Reuter.

"GENERAL FRANCO INCAPABLE OF WINNING WAR"

Hendaye, Apr. 14.
Differences of opinion between General Francisco Franco and the Italian-German general staff in Spain are described in reports of well-informed observers from Salamanca, who state that General Franco, the insurgent's commander-in-chief, has been fighting against the suggestion from Rome and Berlin that he delegate the military side of the war to another leader than himself, and concentrate on Governmental affairs.

For months, it is stated, the Germans and Italians at Salamanca have been striving for con-

SMUGGLING IN NORTH CHINA

Situation Improving?

London, April 14.
Recent reports give ground for thinking the situation with regard to smuggling in North China is generally improving. Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, told a questioner in the House of Commons to-day. But, he added, he would consider whether there was any further action that could usefully be taken.

Mr. A. C. Moreing, Conservative, asked whether the British Ambassador to China had furnished a report on the arbitrary reduction of rents on property owned by Britons in favour of Chinese tenants.

Mr. Eden said he was informed by a sub-committee of the British Chamber of Commerce, with which he discussed the matter, that effective action seemed impossible until an instance occurred which could be made the subject of a test case. Meanwhile, the question would doubtless figure in the international petition which was being presented to the Chinese Government.—Reuter.

SEVERE GOVERNMENT LOSSES

Salamanca, April 14.
Between twelve thousand and fourteen thousand government troops are estimated by the insurgent authorities to have been killed on the Cordoba front in the past four days. According to the prisoners taken in West Madrid, the Government forces in this front are composed entirely of picked foreigners, commanded by Frenchmen and Russians.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

TO RUN THROUGH BLOCKADE

Bayonne, April 14.
The British steamer, Leadgate, intends to try and run through General Franco's blockade by sailing to Santander to load a cargo of iron ore. It is understood that the owners consent to the captain making the voyage.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

'PLANE PLOTTERS DENOUNCED

Ex-R.A.F. Man's Revelations

An organisation set up in London to supply secretly British aeroplanes for use in the Spanish war, in defiance of the international ban, has been denounced to the authorities, states the "Bulletin" (Glasgow).

A Royal Air Force Reserve officer, Douglas Webster Lucke (27), now a Jersey Airways pilot, who discovered what was taking place and gave information to the police, is now under constant protection by special branch men.

He has been told of an attempt on the life of another ex-R.A.F. pilot, and is remaining in hiding at present.

Names and descriptions of some of the leaders of the "aeroplane-runners" have been given to the authorities, and detectives are making thorough investigation.

Talk With Three "Toughs"

Recently, a mysterious phone call at Mr. Lucke's London flat summoned him to an aerodrome near London to consider an offer for flying a private plane across the Channel.

"I was met in the lounge of the aerodrome," said Mr. Lucke, "by three ill assorted individuals. I soon tumbled to the fact that they were on the old game of getting plants to Spain. So I decided to get all the information I could, and then ditch the gang."

Their scheme was for me to go to Rochester and pick up a Short-Solon two-engined air liner, number G-ADDN, which had just been overhauled.

"I was to fly to Bordeaux, clear Customs there on the excuse of a short joy flight, and make for Santander, on the north coast of Spain."

"There I was to pick up three wealthy Spanish gentlemen, who wanted to leave the country."

"I'm certain that once we landed in Santander the plane would have been sold to the Government for a big profit and I should have been left to get back as best I could."

"I asked for the money in advance, but they said I should be paid in France."

"I got a fiver out of them, and agreed to do the job."

"At 11 o'clock that night we drove in a big car to Southend, where they said I should get Customs facilities for clearing the plane."

"I gave them the slip for a few moments, and rang up Southend Customs."

"We stayed that night at their expense at an hotel, and in the morning arrangements were made for all of us to travel, one at a time, in a two-seater air ferry to Rochester to pick up the liner."

"They told me a story of a pilot named B., also an ex-flying officer, who a few days before had agreed to take a plane to Spain for £150, but decamped with the cash."

Found In Flat Unconscious

"He was found soon afterwards in his flat unconscious, and badly beaten up under mysterious circumstances. Later I found that this story was true, and C.I.D. men have the matter in hand."

"On the pretext that the plane might require filling with petrol at Rochester, I extracted a 1000 franc note from them and set off with the pilot of the ferry plane. When we arrived at Rochester I managed to delay the pilot for an hour, and cashed the note at Barclays Bank for just over £9."

"Then I rang up the Customs people and blew the whole story. They took steps to detain the liner, which they understood had been chartered for a private flight to France."

"While the ferry plane went back to get the pilot I rang him up and told him the scheme had reached the ears of the C.I.D. He decided to come to Rochester and see the Customs people himself, and I heard later that he actually pitched them a yarn that was believed, and the plane left later in the day."

Meanwhile the police guard for flying Officer Lucke has been strengthened.

CANADIAN CABINET RESIGNATIONS

Toronto, April 14.
Mr. David Croft, the Ontario Minister of Labour, and Mr. Arthur Roebuck, the Attorney-General, have resigned from the Cabinet.

The Provincial Premier, Mr. Mitchell Hepburn, demanded their resignations owing to differences over the attitude of the Administration to the General Motors strike at Oshawa.

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, the Canadian Premier, Mr. Mackenzie King, stated yesterday that the Dominion Government had no intention of intervening in the General Motors dispute unless there was reason to hope that such intervention would be of value.—Reuter.

ABOLITION OF EXTRATERRITORIALITY

Shanghai, April 15.
The movement for the abolition of extraterritoriality is being whipped up assiduously in Shanghai.

Following the presentation of petitions to the Chinese Government by 175 Chinese civic bodies, it is proposed to form a general committee of prominent men in order to maintain the agitation.

Several leaders of the movement favour unilateral denunciation of extraterritoriality by China if the negotiations with the foreign powers enjoying this freedom fail.—Reuter.

ITALO-AUSTRIAN MEETING

Vienna, April 14.
Federal Chancellor Schuschnigg will meet Signor Mussolini at Venice on April 22. It is officially announced.—Transocean News Service.

BUILDING TRADE STRIKE

Dublin, April 14.
Ten thousand men began a general building strike this morning when bricklayers, masons and workers connected with the building trade downed tools, demanding higher wages and shorter hours. The building trade in Cork is also paralysed by a sympathetic strike by 1,300 workers.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

Dublin, April 14.
About 10,000 workers of the Dublin building trade went on strike last evening, demanding higher pay. They thus joined the 2,000 masons and plasterers who had been on strike almost a week.—Transocean News Service.

STRIKE DEMANDED

Oshawa, April 14.
The Mayor of Oshawa, Mr. Alexander Hall, has telegraphed Mr. Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers, demanding that a strike be called on Monday in the United States automobile plants the C.I.O. controls if the Canadian dispute is still unsettled. Otherwise, says the Mayor, he will call a mass meeting and tell the striking employees of the Oshawa plant that they are being fooled and their union is not playing the game with them.—Reuter.

ANOTHER STRIKE

London, April 14.—A lightning unofficial strike of bus conductors and drivers began this morning in Kent, in Tunbridge Wells, Folkestone, and Maidstone. The Men's Union is meeting this afternoon to discuss the situation.—Reuter.

HIGHLIGHTS FROM THE SOCCER WORLD

Comments On Current Topics

(By Roy Murray)

LEAGUE RACE NEARING CLIMAX

The Rifles-South China, "A" "marathon" in Division I, advances still another step this week-end. Although it would seem easy to forecast the destination of the championship at this stage, it actually tends to become more perplexing. That fatal slip in Chinese XI made against Navy may yet prove their undoing. Both teams are faced with fairly stiff hurdles this week-end. On the face of things there is only one forecast to the result of the Rifles-Eastern tussle—a win for the military team, although we must always be prepared for surprises.

South China will oppose a strong Kowloon XI, who will I believe be strengthened by the inclusion of some in-skillful players to help them in their task. It will be remembered that the Kowloon side took both points away from Caroline Hill earlier in the season, thanks to the assistance of Archer (Worcesters). Even with the assistance of the newcomers I cannot enthuse over a Kowloon victory and except South China to go further ahead.

LAND MAY SATISFY

Lands initial appearance for Engineers against Rifles set many tongues wagging. He emphasized his debut with a typical Lee Wai Tong hat trick, and fairly stood out in shooting power. It is interesting to note that Land has represented Britain in Olympic games and also holds quite a few Army records. Providing he lives up to the form he displayed last week-end he may ultimately prove a gold mine to the Army teams, who have been sadly lacking in a sharp-shooting forward.

RIFLES CENTRE HALF PROBLEM

Now that Campbell has departed from the Colony, Rifles are faced with the somewhat arduous task of finding a worthy successor to step into the vacant centre half berth. It is an exasperating problem to be faced with at this vital stage, especially in losing a pivot like Campbell, whose generalship always had great rallying powers on a side. Despite the critics, Campbell on form was the finest constructive centre half in the Colony.

SCOTLAND'S OUTSIDE RIGHT

James Delaney, Glasgow Celtic's goal crashing Scottish International outside right, has been chosen to play for Scotland against England to-morrow at Hampden Park. This will be Jimmy's fifth cap. He figured in the Scots side against England in the 1935 Jubilee International. Delaney was one of Manager Maleny's best captures and a £13,000 bid failed to induce him to join the Arsenal Stars.

LAI SHUI WING'S INITIATIVE

When it was seen that Lee Wai Tong was not making much progress against the crude defensive methods of Wanklyn in the Shield Final, Lai Shui Wing was very quick to size up the situation, and take over the role of an extra centre forward. The clever little Chinese inside left eventually got his well-merited goal and proved a rare thorn in the flesh of the Welsh defence. He produced a glimpse of his real form in this game and in my opinion is one of the cleverest and most destructive inside forwards in local football.

REMAINING WEEK-END

That noticeable end of the season stalemate has crept into the football teams of late, resulting from a strenuous season, with far too many representative and competitive games being played. With the exception of the Rifles and South China games, the other fixtures hold little or no interest. South China "B" will beat Eastern, Club may struggle home against St. Joseph's, Athletic should swamp Police and Rector get the vote against Kowloon (C).

PA KAU PING'S SUCCESSOR

The more I see of Tam Kwon Kon the youthful Athletic custodian, the more I am convinced of his marked skill and possibilities. He treated the fans to another spectacular exhibition of goal-keeping against St. Joseph's. That he will eventually prove a worthy successor to the brilliant Pa Kau Ping in representative games can be regarded as a certainty.

Lieut. C. C. Garthwaite, the prominent Interport and Army cricketer, who is seen in the above picture with Mrs. Clegg-Hill at a recent Kwantung race meeting, is leaving the Colony to-day aboard the troopship Dorsetshire for home.

Jimmy Delaney, Glasgow Celtic's goal-crashing Scottish Celtic's outside right, who has been chosen to play for Scotland against England to-morrow at Hampden Park. This will be Delaney's fifth cap.

MALAYA'S PLACE ON THE CRICKET MAP

Impressions Of The Game With Tourists

A keen observer and cricket enthusiast contributes a few comments on the all-Malaya XI's match against Sir Julien Cahn's XI at Singapore during Easter, as under:

After all the talk about brighter cricket being provided by our visitors it was Malaya who took the honours, and provided the brightest cricket of the match.

Sir Julien missed a great chance of forcing an issue by not declaring first thing on Monday morning at his overnight total of 184 for 9 wickets. By not doing so 40 valuable minutes were wasted (including the ten minutes between innings) to add a paltry nine runs to the score.

Hopkins' 78, made in just under two hours was by a long way the best knock of the match. To those who have followed cricket regularly here it was the finest knock on the padang since the doctor's own century against Selangor in 1934.

The visitors were set to get 175 runs in an hour and 35 minutes—by no means an impossible task for such a strong batting side on a perfect wicket with a fast outfield.

But they were never at any stage ahead of the clock, the first 50 taking 55 minutes to get and the last 72 coming in three-quarters of an hour.

The greatest credit must be given to the unfinished partnership between H. A. F. Brooke and K. Muthucumarao. These two put on 72 for the eighth wicket when Malaya had seven wickets down for 135 and there seemed to be every chance of Sir Julien's team pulling off a comfortable victory.

"MIGHT-HAVE-BEENS"

Malaya might have won with time to spare had she taken her chances in the second innings. Reddick should have been run out when 6 but Muthu returned the ball wildly to bowler Hart. Maxwell should have been caught and bowled by Growder before he had scored. Dempster should have been held at mid-on by Muthu when he had scored 18.

There was little to choose between H. A. F. Brooke and C. R. Maxwell as stumpers. The Penang man proved wonderfully quick and Maxwell delighted the crowd by the way he took the ball.

Although Lockhart's figures were only 2-31 and 1-23 he bowled very much better than that and was in the writer's opinion easily the most accomplished bowler on the Malayan side.

Growder should have had better figures than 4-70 and 3-64. Missed chances, cost him rather dearly. He kept a good length for the most part.

GOOD FIELDING

Muthu earned lots of praise for his magnificent ground fielding, especially during the visitors' first innings. His batting towards four o'clock on Monday might have been more enterprising.

The fielding of the Malayan side was excellent as a whole. Glade was magnificent and his picking up a treat to watch. Hart was always safe and the others all played their parts well.

Pearse's catch at square leg which dismissed Lyon just before stumps was the fielding treat of the match. It was a truly magnificent effort, for the Gloucestershire skipper hit the ball just as hard as he was able.

It was a real treat to watch the visitors in the field. The way they chased the ball to the boundary, their picking up and their accurate returns to the wicket were all object lessons.

E.C. Fincher For Semi-Final

In the Open Singles Tennis Championship of the Colony, E. C. Fincher entered the semi-final by defeating Y. W. Lee yesterday afternoon on the Stand Court at the H.K.C.C. by 6-4, 6-3.

In the Club Handicap Singles M. Pagh beat G. Smith 6-3, 10-8, and A. C. I. Bowker beat Thomson 6-3, 6-3.

In the Club Handicap Doubles G. E. R. Divett and B. O'M. Deane beat V. R. Gordon and T. C. Monaghan by 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, and in the Handicap Mixed Doubles J. F. L. Smalley and Miss Smalley beat W. Wooding and Miss Ward 4-8, 7-5, 7-6.

long way the best of Sir Julien's bowlers. He kept our batsmen tied up nearly all the time during the twenty overs he sent down on Monday and Hopkins was the only man to play him, with any confidence.

Crisp bowled very much faster when he opened in Malaya's second innings, and his second over in which he got both Noon and Hart was full of venom.

Summers proved himself the most attractive all-rounder of the visiting side. His bowling needs very careful playing and his footwork when at the crease is exceptionally good.

Mudge should do very well on English wickets. He appears to have a very sound defence, and possesses a good repertoire of scoring shots.

C. S. Dempster's 50 not out was not as attractive an innings as his 19 in the first innings. He appeared to concentrate far more on defence though one could not help but admire the way he stroked the ball away instead of playing with a dead bat. Three cover drives he made near the edge were the tit bits of the game.

All told, a grand game, and keenly fought out from start to finish, with Malaya still very much on the cricketing map of the world.

MANCHESTER'S FINE WIN

Cup-Finalists Beaten

London, April 14. Manchester City made themselves practically certain of the English Football League championship when they beat Sunderland on the latter's enclosure at Roker Park by three goals to one. This was Sunderland's second defeat of the week: the cup-finalists losing 6-0 to Grimsby on Monday.

Several first class matches were played in England and Scotland. Reuter cabling the following results:—

TSUI PLAYS AT SINGAPORE

Troubled By The Heat

Tsui Wai-pui, the Hong Kong tennis champion, who is to be a member of China's Davis Cup team in this year's competition, arrived in Singapore by the Lloyd Triestino liner Victoria, on his way to England. He was provided with a game at the S.C.R.C. by Chua Choon Leong who won the first set 6-3.

The visitor gave up with the second set at 7-7 being troubled by the heat.

China have been drawn against New Zealand in the first round and the tie will be played off before May 4. The other members of the team are Mr. Kho Sin-kié, who is already in Europe, and Mr. W. C. Choy, who is on his way there from Shanghai.

FUTURE OF PEAK HOTEL DISCUSSED

REORGANISATION EXPENSES

You will note that reorganisation expenses totalling $5,037.26 have been written off. This item covers the entire Court, Legal and Accountancy Fees, Printing costs, etc. involved in connection with the Reduction of Capital Scheme which was passed by Shareholders, and approved by the Court, last year. Ample provision for depreciation has been made at rates endorsed by commercial practice on the residual values of the various Assets after the application thereto of the reorganisation measures, and amounts for the year to $134,742.03. In the document in your hands the Balance Sheet details appear much enlarged this year. To preserve continuity of record the provisions of the reorganisation scheme, which was passed by Shareholders on the 27th May, 1936, and approved by the Court on the 30th July last, have been particularised against the items effected.

There is little I can usefully add in amplification. I would mention that the additions to furniture and fixtures, shown net—$24,729.61—cover items which have been acquired for various Establishments in furtherance of modernisation measures, and that the sales referred to in connection with the same Asset represent the proceeds of realisation by private treaty of certain of the Peak Hotel furniture on the closure of that Establishment.

Referring to the listed Liabilities, you will observe that the special repairs and renewals account suffered depletion during the year to the extent of $15,738.16. This sum was absorbed in acquiring and fixing silencing apparatus for passenger lifts, meeting the cost of repairs due to such typhoon damage sustained in August last as was not covered by Insurance, and reconstructing and embellishing certain suites of rooms at the Peninsula Hotel and the Repulse Bay Hotel. The last mentioned expenditure has had the effect of placing the accommodation dealt with in the category of "de luxe." A demand for this type of accommodation had been detected, and its popularity since completion evidenced by tenancies, at very lucrative rates, thoroughly justifies our expenditure on it.

BANK OVERDRAFT

The Bank Overdraft figure at the 31st December, 1936, you will, I think, agree is negligible, and at $10,398.25 denotes a reduction in our indebtedness under that heading during the year of $279,000.

The net profit for the year amounted to $220,064.39, which added to the balance brought forward from last year, (after the small reorganisation deduction)—$339,261.11—provides an amount $559,325.50 available for appropriation.

Your Board recommends that $298,466.75 be utilised to pay a dividend of twenty-five cents per share on 1,193,867 Shares, and that the balance then remaining—$260,858.75—be carried forward to new account. Your Directors appreciate that the carrying into effect of their recommendation involves utilising from the previous carry forward some $78,000, being the amount by which the actual profit for the year falls short of the amount of the proposed dividend. They are of opinion, however, in view of the ascertained improved earnings for the greater part of the first quarter of this year coupled with a rapid accumulation of the cash resources of the Company now being experienced, that such a step could properly be taken having regard to the interests alike of the Company and of its Shareholders.

I now formally propose that the Report of the Directors and the Accounts for the financial year ended 31st December, 1936, as presented be adopted, and that the balance of $559,325.50 standing to the credit of Profit and Loss Account be appropriated as follows:—
To pay a dividend of 25 cents per Share on 1,193,867 Shares $298,466.75
To carry forward to New Account 260,858.75
$559,325.50

SECONDER'S SPEECH

Mr. Frank Austin, seconding the resolution for the adoption of the report and accounts, said:—

You, Sir, have given very full details regarding the accounts, and there is very little for me to add. It is gratifying to know that the patronage extended to our hotels in Hong Kong is so much greater than during the previous year; also that this increase shows acceleration during the first few months of 1937.

It is pleasant to hear that you receive with frequency. Returns from our Hotel Managers that "All Accommodation is Full." We trust this happy state of affairs may long continue.

The turning point upwards from the long period of depression that we have been through, followed after the fixing of exchange at about its present level by the Chinese Government, and similar action on the part of the Hong Kong Government. The results of this early became evident in the great improvement of Exports from China. This brought greater wealth into the country, creating a larger demand for foreign imports. So China benefited all round, and this is reflected in Hong Kong by the very nature of things. The lower exchange is an attraction for tourists, and induces them to spend more freely when visiting Hong Kong and China. From these conditions our Company directly benefits.

NEW HOTEL ON PEAK

I trust the Directors will find it possible at an early date to build a modern establishment on the site of the old Peak Hotel as I am convinced that if proper economy is exercised in the building of a new hotel on the Peak, it will prove to be a satisfactory investment. There is a strong demand by a certain proportion of residents in Hong Kong, who are not necessarily here for any great length of time, to be relieved of the worries and responsibilities of running their own establishment, and who would welcome a first-class hotel on the Peak, provided the rates asked are reasonable.

The situation in Shanghai is still difficult, and it is probable that the contribution of our Shanghai Hotels will not be a substantial one until the existing old buildings are replaced with more modern and up-to-date ones.

At the annual meeting of our Company held on May 27 last year, the re-organization scheme was fully discussed, and finally passed by shareholders; as a result of which our shares were reduced from $10 to $7.50 each. At a time when opinion regarding the advisability of the scheme was very divided, it fell to my lot to advocate the proposed reduction, and, among other things, I then stated that:—

"The reconstruction proposed, given only fair trading conditions in the near future, should bring the time nearer when the Company, we hope, may be placed again upon a Dividend-paying basis."

After going carefully into the proposed scheme, those were my considered opinions, but I confess I did not expect that a dividend, however small, would be forthcoming in less than a year's time.

BETTER RESULTS

For many years I have been a resident in one or other of our Hotels, and have always taken a particular interest in the Company's affairs. Apart from the improved general conditions already referred to, the better results shown by the present Accounts are due very largely to the stern economies exercised with regard to salaries, and the general running of the business. The most careful supervision has been exercised by our Managing Director, and his staff; and our gratitude is due to them for all they have done.

I have pleasure in seconding the Proposal that the Report of the Directors and the Accounts for the financial year ended 31st Dec. 1936, as presented be adopted.

DR. KEW'S OBSERVATION

Dr. F. H. Kew remarked that in Mr. Austin's speech was contained a suggestion to build a new hotel on the Peak. He felt that in the event of the Directors taking such a step a meeting of the shareholders should be called before they go on such a scheme.

The Chairman: The Directors have power under Articles to deal with this and other matters and if your suggestion is that the Directors should give up these powers it is something, of course, they could not agree to. The matter of the Peak Hotel, as I have previously mentioned in my speech, is still under consideration and there is still nothing definite.

Dr. Kew: The Directors may have powers but surely considering they should have a voice or they might be asked whether it is feasible.

Mr. J. P. Braga said he thought that like most questions there were two sides to the picture. Dr. Kew was quite within his rights and on the other hand he claimed a right to speak on behalf of the shareholders. In the circumstances, he felt that quite apart from the fact of the powers invested in the Board of Directors, should any measure be adopted, this was a special step and they should not interfere with the Board. He thought there was a lot in that and knowing the mind of the Chairman and his colleagues on the Board, if there were any questions affecting the shareholders, he felt sure that the Chairman would welcome and invite necessary opinions for their guidance and better deliberations.

The Chairman: I think that both you, Dr. Kew and Mr. Braga, are not wanting to take anything from the powers of the Directors and you may rely on their discretion to do what is best for the company. The board, I assure you, will give due consideration to anything which may be taken of importance. Of course, the Directors do not propose to abrogate their powers under the Articles of Association.

OTHER BUSINESS

On the proposal of Mr. M. H. Lo, seconded by Mr. J. T. Bagram, the appointment of Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie to the Board of Directors was confirmed, and the re-election of Mr. J. Scott Harston to the Board was carried unanimously.

On the proposal of Mr. N. V. A. Croucher, seconded by Mr. H. Gittins, Messrs. Percy Smith, Seth and Fleming, were re-appointed auditors and the payment of $3,000 for extra work done last year was sanctioned.

THOSE PRESENT

Present at the meeting were:—Mr. Lawrence Kadoorie (Chairman), Sir Robert Ho Tung, Hon. Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. J. Scott Harston, and Mr. J. H. Taggart (Managing Directors), Mr. P. H. Suckling (Manager), Mr. F. C. Barry (Secretary), Dr. F. H. Kew, Messrs. N. V. A. Croucher, J. T. Bagram, M. H. Lo, J. P. Braga, Frank Austin, A. M. L. Soares, H. Gittins, G. A. Harriman, C. C. NEW IMPERIAL AIR LINERS

Cruising Speed Of 170 M.P.H.

Details of the design of the English class of air liner now being built for Imperial Airways by Sir W. G. Armstrong Whitworth (Hawker Siddeley Aircraft) are now disclosed.

Twelve of these big four-engined monoplanes are on order, and the first is nearly completed.

They are land aeroplanes, fitted with 785 h.p. air-cooled Tiger engines. It is claimed that any two of the engines are capable of keeping the fully loaded machine in horizontal flight up to 4,000ft.

The engines will have a maximum speed, exceeding 200 m.p.h. The cruising speed should be about 170 m.p.h.

They are high-wing monoplanes, which allows unobstructed outlook from the passengers' cabins.

The body is an oval shell, immensely strong, and completely covered with light alloy metal sheets. The wings are tapered both in breadth and thickness, and are built on a single rectangular box spar of corrugated light alloy metal sheets, a special process of the constructors.

Split trailing edge flaps, which in operation increase the wing area for landing to reduce the landing speed, are fitted, and the undercarriage is retractable.

Noise and vibration are almost entirely eliminated from the cabins, and there are no spaces through which noise can enter the body of the machine.

The glass windows are as thick as weight will allow. Inside the machine extensive use is made of bulkheads and corrugated metal with the object of eliminating any tendency to drumming.

Fresh air drawn in through orifices in the forward part of the machine is warmed by contact with a heating element containing steam generated by a boiler on the exhaust pipes of the engines.

The air is kept warm and fresh, and without a trace of exhaust gases or fuel vapour.

ARMS PROFITEERS DENOUNCED

A strong denunciation of profiteering in armaments and allegations of dodging of the State by private enterprise were contained in a speech made by Mr. Thomas Johnston, the Scottish Labour M.P., when opening in the House of Commons an important debate on profiteering and prices in connection with rearmament, states the "Bulletin" (Glasgow).

Mr. Johnston, who was speaking on the motion for the third reading of the Consolidated Fund Bill, remarked that it was said that people who were in the munitions business were just as patriotic and considerate of the national necessities as the people in other industries, and professions, but he regretted to say that that was not borne out by the history of the last 20, 30, 40, or 50 years here or in other lands.

"There is something in this industry which leads men engaged in it to abandon all patriotic consideration, to exploit the national necessities, and to endanger the national interests," he commented.

At the end of the war the Board of Inland Revenue officials reported to a Select Committee that 380,000 people to their knowledge had increased their fortunes over the pre-war basis by no less than £3,000,000,000.

"This is the industry, with all its allies and associations, which the Minister and the Government say must continue to be operated on a basis of private profit."

"It is quite true that the Minister has taken some steps to limit the plunder that is inevitable, but there have been great industrialists who have averred that under private enterprise you cannot prevent dodging. There are 100 methods by which the State can be dodged, and the inevitable result has already become to be apparent."

Government Blameworthy. The Government was blame-worthy in regard to the great price ramp in commodities. It was useless to say that speculation was going on only to a very limited extent. Speculation began so soon as the Government's programme was announced, but the Government did not see fit to take any steps to protect national interests.

He agreed that in regard to foreign-produced commodities it was any action of this country alone which had produced the world shortage, but he believed he could, by means of an Import Board, have regulated the flow of materials into the market, and have prevented the speculation that had taken place in this country.

SHIP CREW THREAT

London, April 14.
According to the "Daily Herald," the crew of the "Queen Mary," which is due to sail for New York to-day, threatened to come out on strike as a protest against the working conditions. The main grievance is the curtailment of certain privileges. As the shipping company, however, is prepared to grant their demand, the strike seems unlikely.—Transocean News Service.

ROYAL NAVY

Return Of The Home Fleet

The Home Fleet, under the command of Admiral Sir Roger Backhouse, has left Gibraltar on the conclusion of its spring cruise and combined exercises with the Mediterranean Fleet, states the "Times" of March 18.
Since Friday last the combined Fleets at Gibraltar have numbered well over 50 vessels, including seven battleships, two battle-cruisers, two aircraft-carriers, and eight cruisers. Home Fleet ships are due at their home ports on Tuesday and Wednesday next. Easter leave will be given to first watches from March 24 to April 8, and to second watches from April 8 to 23.
New Netlayer
H.M.S. Protector, Captain D. J. R. Simson, the new netlayer and target-towing ship, will leave Rosyth after trials on April 3 for Devonport, a week earlier than at first arranged. The Protector is to be ready to leave Portsmouth on May 21 for Malta, to take the place of the sloop Chrysanthemum, which is to be scrapped.
Surveying Service
The three surveying ships to be employed in home waters this year, the Fitzroy and Kelleet (Chatham) and the Flinders (Portsmouth), will leave their ports to begin the season's work on April 12. The Herald, employed on the China Station, has completed a refit at Hong Kong. The Stork, completed last year and since employed off the Malay Peninsula, is to arrive at Colombo on May 13 for refit.
M.O. For Training Ship
The appointment dates from to-day of Surgeon Captain G. G. Vickery, O.B.E., to H.M.S. Victory, for the new training ship Caladonia (the ex-liner Majestic). His experience of a boys' training establishment goes back to 1912, when he was appointed to H.M.S. Impregnable at Devonport. During the War he was medical officer of the armed merchant cruiser Ambrose, the minelaying flotilla leader Abdiel, the Dalhousie, in the Persian Gulf, and of the British expedition in the Caspian Sea, for which he was awarded the O.B.E. He recently completed three years on the staff of Plymouth Hospital.

New Submarine
H.M.S. Sunfish has been commissioned at Chatham as tender to H.M.S. Dolphin for trials and service in the 5th Submarine Flotilla, Portsmouth. This makes a total of 11 submarines of the small Swordfish type, of about 670 tons, 13 1/2 knots speed, and armed with one 3in. gun, one smaller gun, and six torpedo tubes. Lt. Comdr. L. L. B. Myers, formerly in command of the submarine Phoenix in China, was appointed to the Sunfish some months ago. The class will be completed by H.M.S. Sterlet, laid down at Chatham Dockyard in July last.

H.M.S. Diomedes, which formerly was attached to the New Zealand Division of the Royal Navy, left Hong Kong yesterday on her way to Woomers (Shanghai). The cruiser will return to Hong Kong en route to England, on May 6.
With naval and military details aboard, the transport Dorsetshire departs this week end for Home.

ROYAL EMPIRE SOCIETY

Membership Benefits

From the Secretary of the Royal Empire Society we have just received a further short account of various matters which will interest those who have already joined, as well as those who think of joining.

The aim of this Society to establish a real liaison between those in the Mother Country, and those whose homes are overseas must, or necessity, make a wide appeal.

Those who become members at once gain the advantage of being able to make personal contact with each other, and this, between people of widely differing lives and interests is naturally of inestimable advantage in many ways.

Fellows of the Society always receive a copy of the monthly magazine "United Empire" which is a connecting link with all parts of our great Empire.

The Headquarters of the Society in Northumberland Avenue are very convenient for those who spend any part of their "leave" in London.

There are 55 bedrooms (each with telephone), a dining room which seats over three hundred, an assembly hall with a stage for lectures, etc., and a dancing floor, and of course there are lounges, reading and card rooms, rest-room for ladies, changing rooms, a silence-room and a drawing room, and a billiard and smoke-room for men.

The Society has as yet no headquarters in Hong Kong, but as the membership increases something in the way of a clubhouse will certainly be needed. However, with such progressive people as Mrs. Abbott, Sir Henry Pollock, and Mr. C. B. Clifford Hall as Hon. Secretaries, there is no doubt that this Society is absolutely bound to go ahead.

British Movietone Ltd.—one of the companies concerned—have made exclusive arrangements for producing a separate film by the Technicolor process. This will be a unique and historic picture, and will be distributed throughout the world by 20th Century Fox Corporation.

Every facility available at the new Technicolor plant at Harmondsworth will be placed at the disposal of the producers. In addition to which Technicolor will co-operate to the extent of sending over their own camera-units and experts from America.

TO COST £100,000

The actual filming will be done under Movietone's direction and a Technicolor expert will supervise the colour-direction. 150 experts, comprising cameramen, assistants and sound engineers, will be employed in the actual filming alone, for which 40 cameras will be used. 40,000 feet of film will be exposed, 20,000 in colour and a similar length in monochrome. It is estimated that the value of the apparatus engaged on the filming will exceed £100,000.

Movietone's Technicolor production of the Coronation will not take the place of the normal black-and-white edition, but will be supplementary, and will concentrate on those particular "shots" which afford the greatest opportunity to artistry, colour and camera-work. It is not certain, at present, whether any Technicolor "shots" will be taken of the ceremony inside the Abbey.

Major "Chips" Davies, R.W.F., Col. Irwin, D.S.O., G.S.O.I., Col. Harrison and Major MacDonald at the Hong Kong Rifle Association "Bisley" Meeting.

New Crown For The Queen

It was announced that a new crown is being made for the coronation of the Queen states the "Daily Telegraph." It will be the first to have all the jewels mounted in platinum.

Only diamonds will be used, principal among them being the Koh-i-Noor. This famous jewel was set in Queen Mary's crown when it was being made in 1911.

In the new crown it is being set in one of the four crosses patee which spring from the regal circlet.

The circlet, first made for Queen Victoria and worn on many occasions by Queen Alexandra and Queen Mary, is the foundation of the crown. It has been entirely reset. The new design is formed of clusters, with large diamond centres alternating with quatrefoil ornaments.

The crown is being made by Garrard and Co., Ltd., goldsmiths to the Crown. The Queen has had many discussions with these experts about the style to be followed.

A new Coat of Arms for the Queen has now been registered at the College of Heralds. It is contained in a Royal Warrant signed by the King and by the Duke of Norfolk, as Earl Marshal, in which

CHUNG SHAN MODEL DISTRICT

Canton, Apr. 15.

The Chung Shan district (formerly Heung Shan District) being the birth place of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Kuomintang Party, and now a model district of Kwangtung Province, the present magistrate Mr. Yeung Tsi-ning is meeting with much opposition in carrying out his plans for reconstruction, and has been obliged to tender his resignation.

It is reported that Dr. Sun Fo, in view of the Chung Shan district being the birth place of his father, and having been in the hands of the District Reconstruction Committee for a number of years without satisfactory results, thereby belying its status as a model district, has definitely decided to come south for the purpose of calling a meeting of the members of the Reconstruction Committee, and giving matters his personal attention.

Regarding the appointment of a new magistrate to take the place of Mr. Yeung Tsi-ning, Dr. Sun Fo has decided to recommend Mr. Chung Wai-cheung ex-Chinese Consul in Cuba for the post, as soon as Mr. Wu Teh-chen, the newly appointed Governor of Kwangtung Province assumes office.
